W. P. WALTON.

CRAB ORCHARD, LINCOLN COUNTY.

—Mr. Lou Pettus is again employed as clerk at Dripping Springs. Mrs. Scott Faris has moved back to her house on the Somerset pike. Little Jennie Evans is quite ill at Mr. J. H. Hutchings'. Messrs. Ciel Williams, of Mt. Vernon, and Robert Gaines, of Safford, escorted two of our pretty girls to Dripping Springs. Messrs. Mary Curtis and Sue Buchanan are visiting in Knoxville, Tenn. Messrs. Leah and Eva Steyer, of Louisville, have arrived at the Harris House to spend the vacation. Miss Ella May Saunders, of Danville, is visiting with relatives here. Mrs. A. Rhinehart has returned from Owensboro.

—Last Sunday our esteemed friend, Mr. J. Dr. Doores, kindly offered us a seat in his carriage and we were among the very many who gathered at Dripping Springs to hear Rev. J. D. Barnes and his son, Will, expound the sweet gospel of love. Mr. Barnes preached in the morning and in the afternoon Mr. Will, who is also a pleasant and intelligent speaker, delivered an excellent sermon which was appreciated by all who heard it. We must not forget to add that Misses Maria and Georgia's singing formed a very enjoyable part of the exercises. While their tender, pathetic voices rose in tones of melody and praise, a silence like the "stillness of death" reigned. Mr. Barnes preached again at night, making the day truly a "happy picnic." Mr. Slaughter had 75 regular boarders; about 175 registered that day, some took dinner with them while others went out to only the afternoon service. Including all there were fully 300 people on the grounds during the day. Mr. Slaughter is the price of proprietors, while his gentle wife is one of the loveliest of Kentucky ladies. Our thanks are due them for an invitation to visit the springs as often as we choose during the season.

The Masonic Fraternity of Kentucky have for many years celebrated the anniversary of St. John's Day (June 24) with picnics at Louisville and elsewhere throughout the State, for the benefit of the Masonic Widows and Orphans Home of Kentucky, at Louisville. The occasions have become famous throughout the land, but this year, it has been determined, the celebration will eclipse anything of the kind that has yet taken place.

The General Committee have for several months been at work and final arrangements have been made for a celebration to last for three days, viz. June 22, 23 and 24th, the principal features of which will be the Grand Inter-State Drill between a number of the crack military companies of the United States, and between a number of Kentucky Tenthers. Drill Corps, many of the most famous promising to be in attendance. By special arrangements all railroads will sell excursion tickets at the rate of one fare for the round trip to citizens and three-quarters of a cent per mile to uniformed militiamen and Knights Templar.

For aggregating $1,250 are offered and the contests will be novel and exciting. Everyone who can possibly go should do so. Officers of the United States Army will be the judges of the drills, detailed from Washington for the purpose.

"Hello, Shorty," said a gamin, looking at a man of about five feet two in height of the Ohio building yesterday.

"Don't call me Shorty, you little cuss," answered the man of low stature, "if you'll I'll warn your ticket."

"Isn't yer name Shorty?" replied the kid.

"No, it ain't Shorty," replied the man.

"Don't call me Shorty, you little cuss," answered the man of low stature, "if you'll I'll warn your ticket."

There has been no public speaker in Kentucky so overrated as Col. William O. Bradley. He is a pleasant speaker, voluble of speech, at times quite eloquent, but in ability he lacks of being preeminent. In argument he is weak, in statement reckless and deficient in that fairness which should always wait upon pretensions to greatness. No hearer who listens impartially to Col. Bradley will wonder why he repels effectual inductive of public joint discussion. [Owensboro Inquirer.]

We find the following quoted as an advertisement in a medical journal: "Skeletons have ruled firm and active throughout the year, with prices unchanged. We have been able to supply the demand for the common varieties promptly, but the finer grades were scarce and orders for deformities could not always be filled at once. In this regard the market is still unchanged, although our broker in Paris has orders to buy everything colored at the usual rates."

REPUBLICAN CONJURERS.

The Convention And a Few Other Things.

LONDON, June 15.—The republicans are gathering from the 17th Senatorial district to hold a convention together in the shape of a convention to nominate a successor to John Henry Wilson. The convention assembly at 1 P. M. and promises to be a most lively one, as there are already numerous delegates in the city and others arriving by every train and horse-back route leading into town. The starters in the race will be present Senator John H. Wilson, of Knox; Hon. R. Bird, of Whitley; Judge E. J. Jackson, and Representative Ramsey, of Laurel; and it is probable that Palaski may enter the ring with a dark horse to supply the vacancy caused by the withdrawal of L. D. Parker. There are several of the above-named candidates in the background ready at the first blast of the bugle horn to enter onto the track in front of the grand, spirited enough to "run the race from end to end." (Our horse reporter is out.) Among the latter are Columbus Washington Lester, of Whitley; William Leroy Brown, of this town; Richard Leonidas Ewell, that price less republican jewel, whose postoffice address is London, and Marcellus John Moss, of Ball.

It is safe to say there will be a very flood of mountain oratory turned loose upon a patient people. Hon. James H. Tinsley, who stands at the head of the bar of Eastern Kentucky, will present Senator Wilson's name before the convention and will doubtless "use the post rose before him like a dream." J. D. Smith, Esq., a late addition to the London bar, will nominate Mr. Ramsey, Judge Cullen will nominate his countyman, Judge King, while Congressman Emley, or Col. Lester, of Whitley, will say Mr. Bird's case into the ring, and say it will they either will.

The Palaski delegation complain loudly of the inconveniences of a local option town.

We perhaps hazard nothing in saying that the talented young Wm. A. Morrow, "gentleman of the jury," will be heard from during the proceedings.

It seems Trimble, of Palaski, that uniting and unexcused convention wire-worker, the man who held the convention at this place on an occasion still remembered by many, for four long days and wound up by nominating his man, the late Senator Cullum, against big odds, is here in fine fighting trim. Were I a republican aspirant for office, which, thank God, I am not, and until I lose the balance of my scattered brains, will never be, I should feel myself exceedingly fortunate in having Green Trimble for my lieutenant.

Mr. Trimble says Palaski does not want the earth, which may be true, but developments since my opening remarks point clearly to the fact that she would not object to "accepting" the Senatorial nomination and Judge Paul will in all probability be their man. As for me, however, I believe Senator Wilson will succeed himself in the Kentucky Senate, although I heard a well posted man this morning offering to bet two to one on Judge King, of Jackson.

I will be able to give a full report in my next and should anything "blat" in the interim, or elsewhere, will wire you via Bro. Engleman, and you can fire out a special to relieve the breathless anxiety of the country as to the result.

Col. Fisher, of Bell, is here in full force and effect, mixing vigorously among the delegates and if Bell has no other candidate we now beg to place the Colonel's name before the convention in our finest style, as every other county in the district has its man.

Casper C. Williams, a legal luminary of the first magnitude, stationary at Mt. Vernon, shines over our city this morning. C. M. Randall is out again, as are most of our dux patients. Jesse Lovelace has returned from an extended business trip West.

JUNE 16.—At a late hour last night a nomination was received by the republican Senatorial convention, John J. Paul, of Palaski, was the lucky man. I want to say a few things in my next about the platform and other things.

H. H. C. Eversole and wife are in Kansas City, Mo. Sam Magee suffered a severe stroke yesterday evening and is in a critical condition this morning. John Eversole has returned from a Western trip.

Logan county, Ky., famous for its ghost stories, furnishes a genuine Rider Haggard hair-raiser this morning. Attracted by the tolling of a church bell, a reputable citizen mounted his horse and followed the sound, which came from a deserted church situated in the "Dead Lands," a section of country three miles long, covered with swamp. The long-deserted edifice appeared to be lit up with an unearthly red fire, while group around what had once been the altar were a dozen figures clothed in white, the faces covered with black hoods, the long arms and fleshless fingers pointing across the altar, on which lay a figure similar to the others. The ghostly band marched around the altar three times, when the red light gradually died out, and the reputable citizens horse became frightened and ran away, putting an end to further investigations. There is evidently still a very red article of liquor in Logan county. [C. J.

WILLIAMSBURG, WHILEY COUNTY

—Mr. R. A. Potest, formerly of Sidney, Ohio, will take charge of the Central Hotel, at this place, July 1.

—Parties engaged in the star route business begin to drop in one at a time as the 1st of July, the time for the term of service to begin, draws near.

—Arrangements are being made for a picnic Sunday school picnic at this place July 2. We have fine Sunday schools in our town and a grand time for the little folks is expected.

—Mrs. L. A. Brock, one of the teachers of the Williamsburg Normal School, left Monday for Somerset. Mrs. Brock is an excellent teacher and made many friends during her short stay in Williamsburg.

—Bro. Craft was right when he said Williamsburg's pitcher in the match game of baseball at London was a professional. So are all the Williamsburg boys professionally, but he was not right in stating that "Mr. James Ash had only been in Williamsburg since Tuesday last." Your correspondent upon reading the article referred to and feeling an interest in the Williamsburg boys, interviewed some of the club in order to ascertain how long Mr. Ash had been with the boys and all agreed that he was with them in their games of practice prior to the organization of the club and that he has been a resident of Williamsburg and vicinity nearly 2 years, but it is necessary for the London boys to have some excuse for their defeat.

—Circuit Court is in session with one murder case on the criminal docket which is set for trial on the 24th day of the term. It is the case of the Commonwealth vs. William Broughton, charged with the murder of J. W. Whitehead. The case of the Commonwealth vs. William Wilson, colored, charged with rape is set for the 12th day of the term. John Wilson was tried in two cases for horse breaking and stealing and found guilty in each and punishment fixed at one year in the penitentiary in one case and two years in the other case. Joseph Harris, of color, was found guilty of robbery and sentenced to one year. The case against William Smith was tried and the jury failing to agree was discharged. The visiting attorneys present so far as your correspondent has been able to learn, are J. S. Van Winkle, of Danville; J. W. Jones, B. L. Ewell, Wm. L. Brown, London; Judge Golden, J. H. Tinsley, John Deane and J. D. Back, of Bourbonville, Col. Clark, of Knoxville, commonwealth's attorney.

Speaking of the failure of justice in criminal cases the Courier Journal says: "The difficulties are many. First, twenty challenges are allowed to the accused and only five to the State. After these five are exhausted it is comparatively easy to exclude intelligent or courageous men from service. Beyond this the law requires a unanimous verdict; so it is possible for one man to cause a disagreement in any case. Next, when a violent crime has been done, when the whole community is shocked, the State permits a change of venue. Yet when the Governor is convinced that a certain community has been terrorized and the authorities intimidated, he has no authority, of his own volition, and on his own judgment, to send another judge into that district. Then comes the appeal, which, in most cases results in a new trial, so numerous and so expensive have been the objections urged by the court of appeals against any ruling looking to the protection of society. Appeals in criminal cases should be refused, or if this seems too severe, then the grounds for a new trial or an appeal should be clearly defined and the cases should be very few and an exception to these changes are, we believe, essential to a rigid punishment of all criminals. To these changes must our people come at last. The reign of lawlessness must cease Kentucky must vindicate her civilization. Her good name is in jeopardy. Too long have we tolerated crime; content to say we are no worse than Ohio or Tennessee. But let us consider that we are not responsible for the preservation of order in any State but our own. Here we are responsible and we should see to it that no men are sent to the Legislature who hold views at variance with the good order of society."

—MADISON COUNTY.—W. H. Miller, circuit court clerk, received a telegram Monday stating that his brother, C. Irvine Miller, formerly a hardware merchant in this place, had committed suicide that morning at his home in Earl Park, Benton county, Ind.—Dr. William G. White, of the firm of White & Stockton, has sold his interest to Mr. G. W. Willis, and retired from the drug business. The style of the new firm is Stockton & Willis.—C. Stafford, proprietor of the Richmond Planing Mills, made an assignment last Wednesday, to J. Stone Walker, Esq. Liabilities said to be $15,000; assets consist of mill and other real estate that cost $30,000.—The Odd Fellows' picnic on the 21st is expected to exceed anything of the kind ever seen in the State. [Herald.]

Elderly Masher (trying to scrape an acquaintance)—"Charming day, madam. Are you traveling alone?" Lady (vivaciously)—"Oh, no; I'm going down to Newport to be tried for bigamy. Those two gentlemen in the front seat are my brothers, those in the rear deputy sheriff and my two husbands are in the smoking car."

MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY

—By recent additions of machinery the furniture factory here is enabled to turn out chairs at a lively rate.

—Three or four went from this place to the republican Senatorial Convention which was held at London Wednesday.

—We are told it is the cry at — will not continue his Sunday trips to — much longer will but take her home.

—J. H. Jarrett and Samuel Ward, republican contestants for the legislative nomination, have agreed to submit their claims to a committee of seven.

—Pat O'Brien, the man who attempted suicide by cutting his throat last week, has been pronounced insane by the doctors and is yet in a very critical condition from his wounds.

—Steve Prewitt while working in a ball last quarry just south of town Wednesday, had a large stone fall on his leg, pinning him to the ground. It was pried off and the wounded man carried home when one bone was found to be fractured.

—Barley, the prohibition candidate spoke here Wednesday to a fair crowd. In his speech he stated that Bradley would get but a slim vote and Buckner would probably get half the usual democratic vote and the prohibitionists would carry the State like a whirlwind. Such nonsense.

—The officers are after James Ferrell, a Tennesseean, who married Miss Underwood in this county some four years since. It is claimed that he has since married at Williamsburg and the officers there scoured him away. He came back to Rockcastle for a short time and things getting too warm for him he is now in hiding or left the country.

—Milton Miller, Jr., has returned from the Kirkville school. The Weber claim I am for their pitcher. J. D. Mitchell, our old schoolmate, now Richmond's Mayor, was with us Monday. Mrs. White, mother of D. White, proprietor of the Town Hill orchard near this place, is here from Cincinnati, visiting her son, Mr. W. P. Lincoln, of Harrodsburg, was here Wednesday.

—Mr. M. N. Langford, a prosperous merchant and farmer of Langford Station, this county, was married Wednesday evening at the residence of the bride's parents, to Miss Ella Brannaman, eldest daughter of Henry Brannaman, a neighboring farmer. Thus one by one the bachelors see the error of their way and fall into line. The couple leave via the K. C., to day, Tuesday, for a trip to the East.

—Dr. Davis, the Superintendent of Schools, tells us that he is having a warm time of it since the school trustees' election. Several districts had no election, some that did were irregular, in others the trustees resigned for various reasons and the Dr. says in others every one refuses to serve as trustee and others yet look to him to appoint trustees to suit the various factions and altogether the position at present is not an enviable one.

—The new patent jail windows, an invention of J. W. Mullins, of London, have just been received here. The Mt. Vernon building will be the first in which the windows will have been placed. There are also the first the inventor has ever had made, having only gotten the idea a short time since. It is pronounced by those having examined it as being the best thing in that line ever invented. It is next to an impossibility to cut through it even with the best of tools.

Henry (softly)—Florence, do you think you could leave your happy home and loving friends to go into the far West with a worthy young man, who has no wealth save his profession? (A pause) I am waiting Florence. Florence (tenderly) Yes, Henry, I think I could. Henry (with a sigh of relief)—Well, I'm right glad to hear you say that. You see, my friend Joe is going West, and wants to marry; so I'll just mention your case to him. [The Judge.]

A CRUEL OLD MAN.—Young man (to sexton at church door)—Isn't the sermon nearly done? Sexton—About an hour yet; he is only on his "Lastly." Young man—Will it take him an hour to get through his "Lastly." Sexton—No; but there's the "One word more and I am done," and the "Finally," and the "In conclusion" to come yet. Don't be impatient, young man. Your girl won't spoil.

Georgetown county, S. C., has a lake the water of which turned inky black after a storm recently, and every living thing that could crawl on land left it. Fish dead and dying floated to the surface, until enough of them had risen to "cover a hundred acres of land a foot deep." Thousands of buzzards are congregated on the shore, and, when alarmed, "arise and make a noise similar to the roaring of an earthquake."

"Dago Joe," the murderer of young Walter Haines at Shelby Depot, Miss., several weeks ago, was taken from the officers by a mob and hanged.

GOVERNOR—SIMON BOLIVAR BUCK, NER, of Hart County.
 LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR—JAMES W. BRYAN, of Kenton county.
 ATTORNEY GENERAL—P. W. HARDIN, of Mercer county.
 AUDITOR—FAYETTE HEWITT, of Herd County.
 TREASURER—JAMES W. TATE, of Woodford county.
 SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION—JOSEPH DENHA PICKETT, of Fayette county.
 REGISTER OF THE LAND OFFICE—THOMAS H. CORBETT, of McCracken county.
 LEGISLATURE—DR. J. D. PETTUS, Lincoln county.

JUDGE TOM VARNON attended the big barbecue at Lexington Wednesday and has returned warmer in the cause of true democracy than ever. In fact, the old veteran is red-hot with enthusiasm. He met representative men from at least 20 counties and from the reports that they brought up the hero of Fort Donelson will have the warrior from Garrard at least 50,000 Gen. Buckner was the first speaker and for an hour held his audience of 10,000 people in the closest attention. His imposing presence caught the crowd and he surprised even his closest friends both with the excellence of his speech and the manner of its delivery. It was a perfect refutation of Bradley's false deductions and he has only to repeat it after his adversary's eloquence to rout him foot, horse and dragon. Jim Bryen was the next speaker and in his peculiarly captivating style maintained his reputation as a genuine orator. Then came "Old Saddlebags," Senator McDonald, of Indiana. His speech was a statesmanlike and dignified exposition of the differences and tendencies of the two parties and was full of telling democratic campaign matter. After this speech the crowd divided. Fleming, of Louisville, Beck and Blackburn addressing one wing and Settles, McCreary and Ingersoll, of Tennessee, the other. The latter said he was neither Pagan nor republican and then proceeded in a very lively manner to give an earnest of the faith that was in him. The burgoo and everything that went to make up a really enjoyable dinner was served in good style and everybody's stomachs were filled as full as their hearts were of enthusiasm. There was no sign of whisky and nothing occurred to mar the pleasure of the memorable occasion. It was a love feast, pure and simple, that will tell in the coming election.

This is the day fixed by Labor Agitator Wood for his convention. It is to occur at LaGrange and an effort will be made to nominate a full State ticket. Wood is a briefcase lawyer, with an ambition to lead something and having failed to establish a greenback party, he now tries to strut for a brief season upon the stage as the Moses who is to lead the laborers out of all their troubles. It is bad for the laboring men that such a fellow as Wood should be known in their movement.

PELAKSI is always ready to furnish items: Tuesday last J. F. Phelps accidentally shot himself in the leg, rendering amputation necessary; Miss Lou Allen found a railroad torpedo and being curious to know how it worked, struck it with an axe. She knows now, for her face is badly powder-burned and an ugly gash appears on her pretty cheek; Robt. Siles for passing counterfeit money is under arrest.

THE Louisville Post, referring to the Senator's recent letters, states the case thus correctly: Senator Zebulon Vance gets an opportunity to air his opposition to President Cleveland and his policy. This may be a matter of great interest to Senator Vance, but it doesn't make any change in the business of either Grover Cleveland or the democratic voters.

EN-VIC PRESIDENT WHEELER in his will bequeaths $30,000 to home and foreign missions. This is $2,000 less than the salary he drew that belonged to Tom Hendricks. He should have ante-up the whole amount and died with a partially cleared conscience of the fraud he helped perpetrate and of which he was the beneficiary.

THE New Hampshire Legislature has just elected Bill Chandler to the United States Senate. He is the fellow who sent out the telegrams on the night of the election that Hayes was the winner and was the leader of the conspiracy that succeeded in thwarting the will of the people expressed at the polls in favor of Tilden.

THE republican candidate for attorney general, Hon. John Feland, has grown tired already of the chase after empty honors and retired from the ticket. Let's see, we believe Mr. Feland is the man who was to beat Watt Hardin because the latter is no lawyer or words to that effect.

THE panic at Chicago Tuesday when wheat dropped 20 cents on the bushel was equal for a time to the money panic in Wall street in 1873. A number of failures in Chicago and other wheat centres are announced in consequence of it.

ONLY 55 persons attended the Ohio State prohibition convention at Cincinnati. Come to think of it this is about the average in any State of those who wish to make a political out of a purely moral question.

THE Massachusetts Legislature does not take to prohibition. It has just defeated a proposition to submit a constitutional prohibitory amendment by a vote of 135 to 73.

THE INTERIOR JOURNAL wants democraticators sent to the mountain counties to "fire the popular heart." The disposition of the mountaineers to fire at everything in human shape will deter the average statesman from taking any missionary tours in that direction.—[Owensboro Messenger. You libel the mountain people, dear friend. They are pretty quick on trigger sometimes, but the man who goes among them, behaves himself and attends to his own business is always treated with courtesy and respect.]

THE Louisville Commercial says that Billy O'Bradley "has gone into the canvass dressed in homely home-spun, with his pantaloons stuffed in his unblackened boots and a quart bottle of liquid persuasion in either hip pocket." Billy will have to disown the latter proposition, if untrue, when he comes here next week. The prohibition town of Stanford don't even allow the vile stuff to be carried in or on the person.

DR. E. D. STANDFORD, who is making an active canvass for the U. S. Senate to succeed Mr. Beck, and who is making many friends, is about to lead to the hymenial altar a handsome young lady of Louisville. His supporters are of the opinion that he will be as successful in the prosecution of the other suit.

FOLLOWING the lead of Rider Haggard's "She" Emmett Logan has written and is publishing in his paper a serial which he calls by another pronoun, "It." He uses the suggestive nom de plume of Jim Fitts.

AFTER a painful silence for nearly a month, we are glad to hear from Col. Sam M. Bardett again. He was over at the Barbecue and reported it in his usual graphic style.

Atlanta seems to be determined as much that the gamblers shall go as the whisky men. Tuesday six wagon loads of the paraphernalia of the latter were cremated by order of court.

Gen. Buckner has spent a week in the Auditor's office at Frankfort, and is now loaded for bar and Bradley. The trouble has been that the democratic champion has to go to the books for his figures, while the republican prevaricator goes no farther than his imagination for his facts.—[Louisville Times.]

The colored republicans of Mason county held a rousing convention at Mayesville last week and condemned the action of the late State convention of their party, which ignored the colored voters in making a ticket. They resolved to cut loose from the party, and as an evidence of their good faith will hold a convention June 25 to nominate one of their race as a candidate for the legislature and to appoint delegates to the Paris convention to be held in July.

More bloodshed in Rowan. Tuesday night an ex Sheriff Wm. Ramsey and his son Henry, the latter 22 years old, were riding from Morgantown to their home in the country, they were shot from their horses and perhaps fatally wounded by unknown men in ambush. Mr. Ramsey and his son did not belong to either of the Rowan county factions, but recently had been strongly importuned to join the Tolliver faction, which they refused to do as they did not wish to become embroiled in the trouble. This refusal is doubtless what will probably cost them their lives.

Notes by the Business Manager.

LEXINGTON, June 11.—If this quaint little town has changed a particle in the last quarter of a century it is not known to a number of old citizens with whom I talked. The same sleepy, careless appearance that greeted the stranger's eye is still plainly seen; the old-fashioned houses, seemingly built neither for comfort nor appearance, remain as they were years ago and the story and a half, ill shaped court-house plays its part as an eye sore to those who have the least spirit of enterprise. Surrounded by knobs and having no railroad connection it is cut off from the rest of the country and is bothered very little in its enjoyment of what might be called "pioneer life." There is a balm for every wound and the balm in this case seems to be the good people that make up its population. Possessing the qualities of cleverness and big-heartedness, they enjoy life and live as happy, if not more so, than those whose lot it has been to rest on flowery beds of ease. They are a splendid people and I wish it distinctly understood that I throw no slur upon them when I describe their town, but only do so to let those who have been there know how she is getting on. Circuit Court brought a little life in with a big crowd, but she still lies in the arms of Morphine and cannot be awakened.

The hotels can be said to differ in a small degree with the rest of the place, not in design, but in furnishing real first-class accommodations. The dining-rooms are furnished with one table only, but this is a table sure enough, 55 eating at it at dinner Monday and still we were not crowded. The fare is No. 1, the delicacies in abundance and only 25 cents a meal. The Exchange Hotel and Napier House are both good ones and are liberally patronized—the Exchange dining 300 the first day of court.

There is considerable talk about building a new court-house, but no movement is made yet. There can be no objection to this, I am sure, as the present one is entirely too small and very inconveniently arranged.

The crops seen from the pike between this place and Stanford are looking exceedingly well and it looks like the "poor" farmer will make a living, at least, this year.

Bryant S. McClure, democratic candidate for representative of Russell and Casey, was among the crowd Monday shaking hands and making friends generally. He beat his republican opponent 350 votes for the same office only a few years ago and his chances for a walk over are better this time.

At a convention held in Russell county Saturday afternoon last, Judge J. A. Williams received the nomination for county attorney and Judge W. S. Stone for county clerk. I don't know that it had anything to do with their good luck, but the above named gentlemen are both excellent patrons of the INTERIOR JOURNAL, and it may have been sent as a reward to their good deeds in supporting "the best as well as the cheapest." DANVILLE, BOYLE COUNTY.

W. R. Bowman has shown your correspondent an improvement on his patent freight car coupler, for which he claims "the curved arm that at first had to be set by hand now sets by gravity and holds both the link and pin in position for coupling; can be uncoupled either from the side or top of the car; also an attachment by which the brakeman can set the car for uncoupling then go away and the engine can couple or uncouple at will."

Hon. John C. Bullitt, of Philadelphia, Rev. W. C. Condit, of Ashland, and Miss Chenoweth, of Louisville, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Quisenberry. George Z. Dimitt, a former resident of Boyle county, now an attorney of Kansas City, is in town attending commencement. R. D. & El Logan, John W. Proctor, J. R. Marra, J. S. Christian, F. DeGiac, J. M. Hughes, R. S. Nichols, W. J. Lyle and perhaps others attended the democratic barbecue at Lexington Wednesday.

A wild and horrible rumor having gotten about that Joseph Goings, a harmless and well-mannered colored barber had fiendishly violated the revenue laws of the United States, Jo went to Lancaster on Monday evening and surrendered himself to Deputy U. S. Marshal W. O. Owsley and said that he was ready for an investigation. Mr. Owsley took him before U. S. Commissioner Burnside, who put him in charge of the town marshal until 10 o'clock the next morning. The town marshal soon after went about his business and told Jo to come up at 10 Tuesday morning to Mr. Burnside's office. Jo, who is a printer as well as a barber, spent a part of the evening at the printing office being some white friends through with some job work and the balance in helping a colored friend at his barber shop. The next morning Jo's attorney from Danville appeared before Commissioner Burnside, also the witness for the prosecution, and the Commissioner in about ten seconds after hearing all the proof dismissed the warrant. That's all there was in it. Now why should any one want to assert that Joe had been "arrested, carried to Lancaster, put in jail, &c."

The commencement exercises of Centre College began on Sunday when Vice President J. Lapsley McKee preached the Baccalaureate sermon from the 15th verse of the 14th chapter of Psal to the Ephesians. At the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees on Tuesday it was definitely announced that Dr. John M. Werrall, D. D., had finally declined the College presidency, which had been tendered him some months ago, whereupon Prof. J. C. Fales was appointed dean of the faculty until next September, when the trustees will meet at Lexington and elect a President. At the oratorical prize contest on Tuesday evening Mr. L. D. Noel, son of Henry T. Noel, of Lancaster, took the 1st prize and Mr. R. S. Dawson, of Harrodsburg, the 2d prize, a gold medal in each case. All the young men did well, but Mr. Noel's speech was not only an elegant composition, but was delivered with a grace and ease not often observed in school boy efforts. Mr. Noel represented the Chamberlain Literary Society, Mr. Dawson the Philologist. The class day exercises on Wednesday were largely attended and then it was that the emancipated seniors turned themselves loose on the "tyrants of the faculty," on one another and the world in general. They declared themselves prohibitionists so far as banquets were concerned. This thing they said of giving every boy who made a speech eighteen, or any number of bouquets ought to be forever played out. On Wednesday night Hon J. C. Bullitt, of Philadelphia, delivered a very interesting address before the Alumni Association. Mr. Bullitt is of the class of 1812, a native of Kentucky. He went to Philadelphia in 1818 and has resided there ever since. He is very wealthy and one of the most prominent lawyers of his city.

The exercises were concluded to day by speeches from the following graduates: William Luke Clark, Esment, Illinois; R. S. Dawson, Harrodsburg; Richard Givens Denny, Lincoln county; Edward Melville Green, Jr., Danville; James Carroll Hamilton, Mt. Sterling; Charles Dury Grubbs, Mt. Sterling; Charles Martel Mason, Harrodsburg; Frank Nelson Lee, Danville; George Nicholas, Shelbyville; Frank Dillon Van Winkle, Danville; James Thomas Vaughan, Greensburg; Eugene Kerr Wilson, Williamstown; valedictorian, William Lawson Sumrall, Danville. The degrees were conferred and then the benediction was spoken. A banquet was prepared for the alumni by the ladies of the 21 Presbyterian church.

The Salamander.

Mme. Zelenogoroff, the widow of Capt. Zelenogoroff, who, with eight others, was shot at Rustchuk on February 22, by order of the Regents, is a young lady of some 20 years. She complains bitterly of the manner of the executions. She said: "My husband and the rest were sentenced to death late on the evening of the 21st and shot at 4 o'clock next morning. The nine victims were placed before their shallow, short graves, which were not more than four feet in length and a foot and a half deep. My husband refused to have his eyes bandaged, and tore open the tunic of his uniform that it might not be riddled, saying that his coat was guilty of no treason. The firing party numbered ninety, and yet my husband was left unscathed after the first volley. At the second and third discharge he was wounded and fell. Then the officer in charge advanced to give him the coup de grace and emptied five chambers of his revolver before the "murder of my husband was completed. Then the crowd rushed in and tore the boots and clothes from the still warm bodies, which were pushed into two small graves and trodden down. My husband's feet were backed off so that his poor mutilated corpse might be made to fit the grave. It was all very horrible."

"The dogs came in the night and we had to set guard over the graves. Subsequently we erected crosses and headstones, but they were demolished by the brutal and vindictive agents of the Regents. Now things are quieter we have replaced the headstones."—[London News.]

Bulgarian Executions.

M. Dameril mentions a case where three-fourths of the head of a salamander was cut off with a pair of shears. Put into a glass vessel and deprived of nostrils, eyes, ears and without a tongue, he continued to live and to move around, even when circulation had so done its work that there was no normal connection with the lungs, and no passage for receiving food. Aristotle, Nicander, Dioscorides and Pliny all agree that the salamander is proof against the fiercest flames. The latter authority even outstrips the others in declaring it has no sex. Linnaeus places the salamander among the lizards, though he has a heart with two auricles.

As to the ability of the salamander to withstand fire, the only evidence recorded of later years was supplied by the naturalist Buffon by M. Boutholier, a French He declared that he saw a salamander—one of the smaller species—walking about among the live coals of his kitchen fire. He removed it while still alive; the balance of the household insisting it was the devil, flying for their lives meantime. Buffon in removing it from the bottle in which it was sent him, discovered that a portion of the reptile was missing, and concludes therefrom that it would have been entirely burnt up had the Frenchman not rescued it in time.

The machinery used in the manufacture of hair pins is of a delicate and intricate character, as the price at which pins are sold necessitates the cheapest and most rapid process, which can only be procured by automatic machines. The wire is made expressly for the purpose and put up in large coils, which are placed in a clamp, which carries it to the machine while straightening it; from there it runs into another machine, which cuts, bends and by a delicate, instantaneous process sharpens the points. Running at full speed these machines will turn out 120 hair pins every minute. To economize it is necessary to keep them working night and day. The difficult part is the enamel log, which is done by dipping in a preparation and baking in an oven. Here is where the most careful attention is required, as the pin must be perfectly smooth and the enamel have a perfect finish. The slightest particle of dust causes imperfections and roughness, which is objectionable. —[Boston Budget.]

SAN FRANCISCO GIRLS.—Thirty years ago marriageable girls were as scarce in San Francisco as white crows; now the quarter is overstocked and anxious mothers watch with sinking hearts as year after year roll over their daughters' heads without bringing the right man to the front. It is not that our girls are less beautiful than the rest of their sex, for in this they excel. It is not a lack of sensibility, for most San Francisco girls are as generous and as amiable as can be. No, it is their other useless nose, loss of dress and hatred and ignorance of all that appertains to domestic economy, which scares the young man of the present day, and the mothers are to blame. —[Oklahoma Tribune.]

Wife—"What do you think of the new girl Joan?" Husband—"Was that her that let me in?" Wife—"Yes." Husband—"Well, she's just a daisy." Wife (icily)—"Think so?" Husband, enthusiastically—"Think so? Why, she has a complexion like a moon rose, and eyes like—like—I don't know what; and her teeth are splendid, too." The next day when Joan went home to dinner he was let in by a girl with a complexion like polished ebony, eyes as large as saucers and teeth like two rows of piano keys. —[Boston Courier.]

Thomas A. Edison, the electrician, has a keen appreciation of humor. During his recent illness he was constantly annoyed by having his nurse take his temperature at frequent intervals. One day he slipped the thermometer into a cup of hot tea. The nurse soon after attempted to measure his temperature, and was horrified to find that Mr. Edison was apparently burning up with the hot tea. After a man stops enduring,

Law Points For The Farmers.

If a note is lost or stolen it does not release the maker; he must pay it if the consideration for which it was given and the account cannot be proven.

Notes bear interest only when so stated. Principals are responsible for the acts of their agents.

Each individual in a partnership is responsible for the whole amount of debts of the firm, except in cases of special partnership.

Ignorance of the law excuses no one.

The law compels no one to do impossibilities.

An agreement without consideration is void; a note made on Sunday is void; contracts made on Sunday cannot be enforced.

A note made by a minor is void; contract made with a minor is void; a contract made with a lunatic is void.

A note obtained by fraud from a person in a state of intoxication, cannot be collected.

It is a fraud to conceal a fraud. Signatures made with pencils are good in law.

A receipt for money is always conclusive.

"Value received" is usually written in a note, and should be, but it is not necessary. If not written, it is presumed by the law, or may be supplied by the proof.

The maker of an "accommodation" bill or note (one for which he has received no consideration, having lent his name or credit for the accommodation of the holder) is bound to all other parties precisely as if there was a good consideration.

No consideration is sufficient in law if it be illegal in its nature.

Checks or drafts should be presented during business hours, but, in this country, except in the case of banks, the time extends through the day and evening.

If the drawer of a check or draft has changed his residence, the holder must use all reasonable diligence to find him.

If one holding a check as payee or otherwise transfers it to another he has a right to insist that the check be presented that day, or, at the farthest, the day following.

A note indorsed in blank (the name of the indorser only written) is transferable by delivery, the same it made payable to the bearer.

The time of payment of a note must not depend upon a contingency. The promise must be absolute.

A bill may be written upon any paper or substitute for it, either with ink or pencil.

The payee should be distinctly named in the note, unless it is payable to bearer.

An indorsee has a right of action against all whose names were on the bill, when he received it.

If the letter containing a protest or non-payment is put in the postoffice, any miscarriage does not affect the party giving notice.

Notice to protest may be sent either to the place of business or residence of the party notified.

An oral agreement must be proved by evidence. A written agreement proves itself.

The law prefers written to oral evidence, because of its precision. —[New York Journal.]

The boss liar lives at Lebanon. He telegraphs that the company boring for gas at a depth of 27 feet, struck what seems to be the dome of the bottomless pit which evidently extends to China. The theory is strengthened by the fact that a great vein of ice tea has been struck and is now flowing at the rate of 461 barrels every 21 hours. Icebergs can be plainly heard thumping up and down against the dome of the pit, and the tea is evidently extruded from the roots of thousands of acres of tea growing in the soil of China and boiled by the internal heat of the earth. A vein of ground-sugar closely resembling white sand, was struck at a depth of 181 feet; so the tea comes from the well, sweet, sparkling and delicious. It is considered the most remarkable strike of the age, and the most intense excitement prevails.
